

THE CONVENTION AND THE LEGISLATIVE RESTRICTIONS UPON ITS POWERS.

True to its habits and to its instincts the Radical party continues its opposition to any change upon its session. It has been forced upon its session by the Convention, and it has been forced upon its session by the Convention, and it has been forced upon its session by the Convention.

True to its habits and to its instincts the Radical party continues its opposition to any change upon its session. It has been forced upon its session by the Convention, and it has been forced upon its session by the Convention, and it has been forced upon its session by the Convention.

True to its habits and to its instincts the Radical party continues its opposition to any change upon its session. It has been forced upon its session by the Convention, and it has been forced upon its session by the Convention, and it has been forced upon its session by the Convention.

True to its habits and to its instincts the Radical party continues its opposition to any change upon its session. It has been forced upon its session by the Convention, and it has been forced upon its session by the Convention, and it has been forced upon its session by the Convention.

True to its habits and to its instincts the Radical party continues its opposition to any change upon its session. It has been forced upon its session by the Convention, and it has been forced upon its session by the Convention, and it has been forced upon its session by the Convention.

True to its habits and to its instincts the Radical party continues its opposition to any change upon its session. It has been forced upon its session by the Convention, and it has been forced upon its session by the Convention, and it has been forced upon its session by the Convention.

True to its habits and to its instincts the Radical party continues its opposition to any change upon its session. It has been forced upon its session by the Convention, and it has been forced upon its session by the Convention, and it has been forced upon its session by the Convention.

True to its habits and to its instincts the Radical party continues its opposition to any change upon its session. It has been forced upon its session by the Convention, and it has been forced upon its session by the Convention, and it has been forced upon its session by the Convention.

20TH MAY, 1875.

The Charlotte Southern Home publishes an important piece of information touching the authenticity of the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence. It says:

We learn by a private letter from Bolivar, Tenn., that this distinguished grandson of Col. Thomas (Col. Thomas) has been found to be a genuine Revolutionary Hero. Mr. P. J. (Col. Thomas) has been found to be a genuine Revolutionary Hero.

The important duty of selecting suitable delegates for the Constitutional Convention now devolves on the people. The people must select suitable delegates for the Constitutional Convention now devolves on the people.

We heartily concur with Senator Ransom in his thinking. Senator Ransom fully qualified to fill the office of President of the United States with the highest honor to himself and the greatest benefit to the whole country.

At Greensboro recently Judge Dick declined to express any opinion as to the constitutionality of the Civil Rights bill—believing such a course premature—but expressed a concurrence in the construction of the law adopted by the Ohio courts. He holds to the opinion that the act gives the colored man no rights in this State that he did not possess under the old Constitution.

Mr. Blaine and his set, the moderate faction of the Radical party, while they disavow feelings of hostility to the South and disapprove of any further legislation of the Reconstruction party, affect to believe that there is danger to the country from the united front our people present. Mr. Blaine no longer talks so much about treason and rebels as about undue sectional preponderance. He urges the Northern people that there is danger that the South will, ere long, shape and control the destinies of the nation unless the Northern people shall vote solidly with the Radical party.

It would doubtless be far better for the whole country if sectional unity was not a necessity for the South. It is literally a necessity for the South, and it is literally a necessity for the South, and it is literally a necessity for the South.

It is literally a necessity for the South, and it is literally a necessity for the South, and it is literally a necessity for the South, and it is literally a necessity for the South.

It is literally a necessity for the South, and it is literally a necessity for the South, and it is literally a necessity for the South, and it is literally a necessity for the South.

It is literally a necessity for the South, and it is literally a necessity for the South, and it is literally a necessity for the South, and it is literally a necessity for the South.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Seven years is the time counted for the construction of the tunnel between England and France.

Colonel Jefferson Davis and Captain Ulysses S. Grant are invited to a reunion of the officers in the Mexican war in Austin, Texas, on the 8th of May.

Germany's military forces, including those of Bavaria, comprise at this moment 31,830 officers, 1,329,600 men, 314,970 horses, 2,700 field and 820 sago pieces of cannon.

Gen. Marcus J. Wright, formerly a Confederate general, has received from the Khedive of Egypt the appointment of Adjutant-General in the Egyptian army, with the rank and pay of Colonel.

Hans Christian Andersen, the great fairy romancer, celebrated his seventieth birthday at his home in Copenhagen, April 2. His admirers in Denmark on that day placed on his head the laurel wreath of a national poet.

There are fears expressed that the great Salt Lake of Utah will soon grow large for its confines. Since 1861 there has been a steady rise, and it is estimated that the land on both sides a tremendous rate. Whether it is due to the intrusion of the Mormons or is tied of lying so long on the same bed, is not stated.

The Washington Star (Republican) takes matters more philosophically than some of its party organs. It says: "A Republican contemporary that spoke of Connecticut last week as the Land of Steady Habits, now, in holy wrath, characterizes it as the Wooden Nutmeg State. But Connecticut will come out all right when we get through with these troublesome 'off years'."

A noticeable sale of real estate took place in New York recently, when four lots on the Grand boulevard were disposed of at prices ranging from $4,000 to $4,500. A few years ago any one of these lots would have brought more money than was realized at this sale for the four. Will hard times and general depression account sufficiently for such a shrinkage in values as here shown?

It is said that Prince August Alexander Louis Ferdinand Alexis Charles William Maurice Albert Adolbert, of Saxe-Wittenberg-Hohenstein, Westphalia, is about to marry the daughter of a poor schoolmaster. That the girl is going to marry A. A. L. F. A. C. W. M. A. A., of S. W. H., merely an abbreviated right name, appears to be the case. The prince, who is a member of the third tier, is said to be a poor schoolmaster. That the girl is going to marry A. A. L. F. A. C. W. M. A. A., of S. W. H., merely an abbreviated right name, appears to be the case.

THE ARLINGTON ESTATE.

He Gave to the Chicago Tribune Reporter a Touch of West Point Etiquette, and Sends a M. P. Message to the Terrible Story.

The result of an interview with the gallant Col. Frederick D. Grant is given by the Chicago Times. Col. Grant, the son of the late General Grant, is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States.

Col. Grant is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States. He is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States.

Col. Grant is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States. He is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States.

Col. Grant is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States. He is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States.

Col. Grant is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States. He is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States.

Col. Grant is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States. He is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States.

Col. Grant is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States. He is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States.

THE ARLINGTON ESTATE.

He Gave to the Chicago Tribune Reporter a Touch of West Point Etiquette, and Sends a M. P. Message to the Terrible Story.

The result of an interview with the gallant Col. Frederick D. Grant is given by the Chicago Times. Col. Grant, the son of the late General Grant, is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States.

Col. Grant is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States. He is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States.

Col. Grant is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States. He is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States.

Col. Grant is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States. He is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States.

Col. Grant is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States. He is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States.

Col. Grant is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States. He is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States.

Col. Grant is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States. He is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States.

THE ARLINGTON ESTATE.

He Gave to the Chicago Tribune Reporter a Touch of West Point Etiquette, and Sends a M. P. Message to the Terrible Story.

The result of an interview with the gallant Col. Frederick D. Grant is given by the Chicago Times. Col. Grant, the son of the late General Grant, is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States.

Col. Grant is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States. He is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States.

Col. Grant is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States. He is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States.

Col. Grant is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States. He is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States.

Col. Grant is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States. He is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States.

Col. Grant is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States. He is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States.

Col. Grant is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States. He is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States.

THE ARLINGTON ESTATE.

He Gave to the Chicago Tribune Reporter a Touch of West Point Etiquette, and Sends a M. P. Message to the Terrible Story.

The result of an interview with the gallant Col. Frederick D. Grant is given by the Chicago Times. Col. Grant, the son of the late General Grant, is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States.

Col. Grant is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States. He is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States.

Col. Grant is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States. He is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States.

Col. Grant is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States. He is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States.

Col. Grant is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States. He is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States.

Col. Grant is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States. He is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States.

Col. Grant is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States. He is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States.

THE ARLINGTON ESTATE.

He Gave to the Chicago Tribune Reporter a Touch of West Point Etiquette, and Sends a M. P. Message to the Terrible Story.

The result of an interview with the gallant Col. Frederick D. Grant is given by the Chicago Times. Col. Grant, the son of the late General Grant, is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States.

Col. Grant is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States. He is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States.

Col. Grant is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States. He is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States.

Col. Grant is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States. He is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States.

Col. Grant is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States. He is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States.

Col. Grant is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States. He is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States.

Col. Grant is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States. He is a graduate of West Point, and the son of his father, the President of the United States.